

Confucius Institute at Troy University Offers Teaching English in China Jobs

At Spring Career Fair

April 1st, 2015, Troy University held Spring Career Fair for the spring graduates and company employers. Confucius Institute at Troy University (CIT) provided applicants with several jobs to teach English in China, some English majors and TESOL majors had handed in their resumes.

CIT also dedicates to helping Troy University students get more work opportunities on the basis of serving local Chinese language learners and providing Chinese interpretation and translation services to local business. For years, CIT has become the unofficial ambassador and struggled to realize a win-win communication between China and the United States of America.

