Confucius Classroom Started at Pike Road School

On September 10, 2015, a team of five teachers from Confucius Institute at Troy University began Chinese language classes at Pike Road School for Grades 7 and 8, marking the official start of the Confucius Classroom at Pike Road School. The classes for Grades 2-6 starts next week and classes for Grade 1 will start next semester.

Besides teaching Chinese language, teachers interacted with students on traditional Chinese cultural activities like Paper Cutting, Taichi Fan in their first class. Students showed great interests in both Chinese language and culture. Pike Road School is a prestigious new school and the successful start-up of Confucius Classroom in this school, which is also the first Chinese Program in Pike Road City, is definitely a milestone of Confucius Institute at Troy University.
